

Are you an enrolled college student that is 18 years old and over?

Do you identify as a woman of color and have a passion for social justice?

Are you interested in moving the needle on a “Women’s Bill of rights” from dialogue to collection action?

The YWCA Silicon Valley invites you to be a part of our Ignite Fellowship Program. The Ignite Program is an Advocacy Fellowship Program that seeks to push the needle on identifying and advocating for priority areas for action and to drive change. The Ignite Fellowship Program will engage a diverse cohort of women to inform and shape a “Women’s Bill of Rights” ordinance. The project focuses on building grassroots leadership to advance CEDAW, and to increase the capacity for civic engagement by all women in San Jose. Session topics include: Legislation 101, Policy Research, Messaging, Meeting with Elected Officials and more.

Come learn how to create change through policy advocacy.

The Ignite Fellowship Program seeks to:

- Build sustainable grassroots women’s leadership capacity in San Jose.
- Engage underrepresented communities of women, especially young women of color, to shape the priorities and implementation framework of a “Women’s Bill of Rights” ordinance for San Jose.
- Shape public policy by engaging young women of color, to advocate for women’s rights.
